plans for the wedding on Thursday, September 3, of Miss Gladys Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks, of New York, and Mr. Eugene V. R. Thayer, Jr., of Boston, were announced today. Miss Brooks is one of the most popular girls at Newport, and, as her marriage will be the only one of the season, the details are naturally matters of great interest to society.

Meadow Club this evening the most brill-steamer Philadelphia, which yesterday into the season thus far morning arrived from Southampton, well was held. It consisted of tableaux vivants, laden with passengers from all the world. So greatly did stage folk predominate that the nine claborate stage pictures more than thirty matrons and maids prominently identified with the social gayety of the summer colony appeared in costume.

The ceremony will be performed in old Trinity Church at noon, the assistant rector, the Rev. Edward J. Dennin, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Bail, of Groton School.

More than two thousand invitations to the church will be sent out, and several hundred will be bidden to the reception and breakfast, which will follow at Rookhurst, the handsome summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, in Bellevue avenue. Both the church and home are to be attactively decorated with flowers, and, for the reception, Mullallay's Band, from the Casino, will play.

The best man will be Messrs. Reginald Brooks, brother of the bride elect; Mr. Phillip Lipagement.
